Hays LAS created a master plan concept for the new Rob Boram Construction Headquarters in Weirton, West Virginia. The design called for building placement, parking and a landscape plan.

The site was planned and orientated to allow large truck access around the entire building for supply delivery. Site walls at both entrances and directly in front of the building not only present a sense of arrival but provide spaces for unique signage opportunities. The landscape plan offered a variety of low maintenance perennials, flowering shrubs and ornamental trees. The symmetrical plan also included an outdoor pergola and kitchen in the rear of the building.

Hays LAS worked side by side with the company's owners in developing a traditional landscape plan that compliments the integrity of the building; a structure that Rob Boram Construction will use not only as their headquarters, but as a showcase home as well.
